

CANADA

COVID-19 Country Tear Sheet

The health and safety of our employees at L3Harris is our highest priority. We want to ensure you are equipped with the latest information in real-time. Please continue to check Nexus frequently for COVID-19 response updates.

In general, the following is the current guidance for employees in Canada:

- If you are feeling unwell in general, do not come to work. Use the paid time off benefits available to you to rest, recuperate, and call ahead to your physician's office to see if an appointment is necessary.
- If you experience any symptoms of COVID-19 including a fever and continuous cough, OR you feel you have reason to believe you have come into contact with someone diagnosed with, or seeking confirmation of COVID-19 infection exit the workplace immediately, and notify both your HR Business Partner, as well as your segment COVID-19 Human Resources Response Team member noted below. You must also immediately contact your local Public Health Authority to report your current situation and potential condition. They may also advise you to seek medical treatment or contact a physician.
- If you have traveled to or through a restricted country as outlined on Nexus, you will be required to self-isolate at home for a period of 14 days. If you are feeling well and can work remotely, you will be asked to do so to the extent your job responsibilities lend themselves to remote work. If you are unable to work from home, please speak with your HR Business Partner with respect to the most appropriate paid time off code/process to use during self-isolation.
- Frequently visit the Government of Canada's website for the latest information about the virus.
- Read the Government of Canada's Guidance Documents.